OUTSIDER MUSIC

The term "Outsider Music" was first coined by Irwin Chusid, DJ of WFMU New Jersey USA. (Check out his book "Songs in the key of Z").

It is a music of no particular style or format. It could be Heavy Metal (aka Naughty music), Country or Surf. But what makes it original and unique is the guys who make it. Their approach is usually unorthodox. they read the manual then put it through the shredder. What comes out cannot be explained. Outsider Artists include Wesley Willis, Daniel Johnson. Bingo Gazingo and Wild Man Fisher.

Rim Records specialises in this brave, new music. It is a vehicle to help champion those of no commercial value. Uncouth is the new cool.

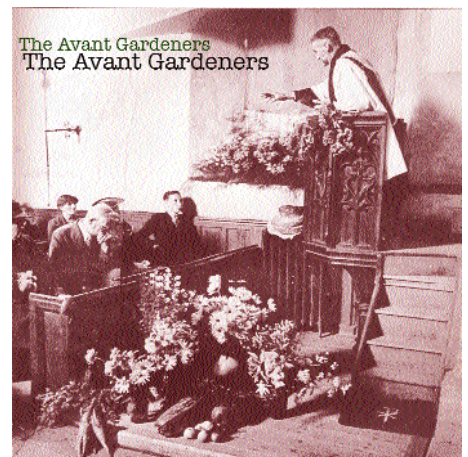

THE AVANT GARDENERS; THE AVANT GARDENERS. RIM CD05

The Avant Gardeners do not believe in using more than four recording tracks. Most of their music is recorded on two or less. Their songs last no more than three minutes. They believe in expressing their worldly experiences in a short, high energy blast, without the repetition of verse, chorus, verse. Say something once, why say it again?

The Avant Gardeners wish to remain anonymous for as long as failure will allow them.

They create their music in a tiny village in Dorset. They believe their material is so controversial and subversive that they fear the locals will run them out of town with burning torches, just like Frankenstein's Monster.

Sometimes you have to live a double life to survive.

FUNK CHILD; SEXTON MING. RIM CD06

This is Sexton's third solo release on Rim. It is deliberately American. Sexton has lived with, tasted, touched and smelt the Yankie tribe. And this is the theme of the album. The slow erosion of English culture from the lapping waves of the Atlantic. This is exemplified by songs of and about TV detectives, Hip Hop, Springstein and folk blues.
